Supreme Interview after I dominate at Nintari Championship!

Lather: So, Mr. Badmish, How does it feel to be the supreme exalted world Nintari Champion?

Me: Pretty good, Stan. But I gotta tell ya: it took a lot of hard work for me to get where I am today.

Lather: I guess so. What kind of things did you do to get ready for this championship?

Me: I had a very strict training regiment:
Every day I'd get up and skate 3 miles down to the video arcade and play Space Busters for a while. Then I'd head back home after my parents went to work and practice Nintari.

Lather: I see. What other things did you do to get ready for the championship?

Me: Well, I had a strict diet: Doritos chips, Slamdunk Cola, and products made with Tootsweet were almost all that I would let myself eat.

Lather: That's impressive self discipline!

Me: Well if you want to hone your skills to razor sharpness, you have to make a few sacrifices.

LEONA HUMPHORD: A CITIZEN WE CAN BE PROUD OF Killing!

by Henrietta Sskisser.

FRUMPTON-Frumptonians are privileged to enjoy the high quality of life in our fair city made possible by pillars of the community like Leona Humphord.

Outstanding community service programs such as the upcoming Tootsweet Annual Frumpton Frog Jump have long been a hallmark of the Humphord family, enriching Frumptonians both young and old for nearly two generations. Following in the footsteps of the patriarch of the Humphord clan, Col. Rev. Dr. Hipolytus Mumford Humphord, (may he rest in peace) and her husband Harold Henry Humphord (may he also rest in peace), Leona Humphord has continued the family's tradition of generosity to the citizens of Frumpton.

Leona Humphord

Indeed, even in the midst of deep personal grief, she affirmed the Humphord civic commitment, remarking to a group of reporters shortly after her husband's untimely demise in a tragic golfing accident, "Harold guaranteed in his will that the sludgeworks will continue to benefit all the citizens of Frumpton as long as sludge can be turned into Tootsweet. I will do everything in my power to make sure the terms of his will are fulfilled."

CARE OF THE COMMON BULLFROG

By Prof. J. Arthur Toedkisser

The North American spotted bullfrog (jumpinus greenwarta) has long been maligned as a source for the unpleasant skin condition commonly known as warts. This assumption is not only medically invalid but also a grave disservice to a benevolent and helpful species. As any young boy can tell you, frogs are great fun and make excellent pets as long as you take a few basic steps to care for them. To keep your hopper in good health you need to make sure he stays moist and cool. Check his skin: if it's cold and slimy then your frog is probably in good condition. As far as food goes, frogs can eat almost any kind of insect but they are especially partial to ants and bees. You should try to feed your amphibian friend at least once a day, but he can go without food for several if he has to. It's also a good idea to let your web-footed pal take a swim on a regular basis: it's good for his skin and will keep him in good spirits. A bathtub-sized pool is ideal for your little green buddy to bathe in. Following these guidelines will keep both you and your frog happy and healthy.

Local Boy Wins Regional Title

Frumpton's own William J. Beamish has won the western regional title for the Nintari "Monster Squad" championships, qualifying him for the national championships to be held later this summer. Beamish's score of 2,349,997,186 was enough to best his closest competitor by eighty thousand points. The Nintari Corporation plans to award the winner of the national championships a scholarship and will feature him in several upcoming nationally-aired commercials. He will also receive a lifetime supply of video games, a stereo, a minibike and a trip to space camp. When asked the secret to his success, the nine year-old Beamish replied "I practice a lot and drink Slam-Dunk cola while I play: it improves my reflexes."
